Data & Media Destruction Services

After a major media conversion, data conversion or copying job, a company may be faced with many old tapes that need disposal. eMag Solutions can provide media destruction services with guaranteed security. All tapes can be completely degaussed (erased of data) before destruction and then disposed of in compliance with local environmental and HIPAA environmental regulations. Some parts may also be recycled. eMag can provide a certificate of media destruction upon request in such instances.

DATA DESTRUCTION

Often referred to as "degaussing", data destruction is the erasure of data from the physical tape. The media itself is not destroyed, only the recorded data. This process can be done on site for a client or at eMag facilities. If completed on site, eMag will provide all equipment and labor to complete the data destruction process.

MEDIA DESTRUCTION

This service destroys the physical media itself. Typically, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) frowns upon simply "throwing tapes away" since they are not a biodegradable product. This action would also raise certain security questions in the minds of many of today's corporate auditors. eMag offers a media destruction service whereby the media is destroyed and disposed of in an environmentally acceptable manner. A "Certificate of Media Destruction" that meets most auditor requirements is provided as documentation of environmental protocol.
